

Social & Corporate Responsibility

Whistleblowing

Officially known as making a disclosure in the public interest, whistleblowing can often seem like a daunting and complicated process, with individuals afraid they won't be taken seriously or will encounter reprisals in the workplace. This module explores the legal protections offered to whistleblowers, the responsibilities of employers to respond to disclosures made in the public interest and what individuals can expect throughout the process.

In this Module

Videoscribe explainer video, with professional audio (duration: 03:56)

English Subtitles

12 Expanded learning content blocks in the module format

'Check my understanding'
5 Question knowledge check

Top Tips

1. Report wrongdoing regardless of whether it happened in the past, is happening now or you believe it will happen in the future.
2. The information you provide in a disclosure could prevent harm.
3. You can protect your identity by requesting confidentiality.

