

Equality & Diversity

Race

In this module, we explore what is meant by race and consider what the law says to protect people in the workplace from racial discrimination. We will look at the four distinct types of discrimination: direct, indirect, harassment and victimisation and consider the law, intended to protect people at every stage of their employment, from recruitment and selection through to redundancy and dismissal and any exceptions. We will explore what to do if you feel you or someone else has been discriminated against due to race, and identify how to resolve the issue. Furthermore we will observe a case study to see the law in action.
