

Equality & Diversity

Marriage & Civil Partnership

The Equality Act 2010 says you mustn't be treated unfairly in employment because you are married or in a civil partnership. In this course, we'll explore the definition of marriage and civil partnerships and the three types of discrimination which apply to this protected characteristic. We'll examine the law, the protection it offers and what to do if you feel that you have been treated unfairly as a result of your marital status. Furthermore we will observe a case study to see the law in action.

In this Module

Videoscribe explainer video, with professional audio (duration: 04:14)

English Subtitles

13 Expanded learning content blocks in the module format

'Check my understanding'
5 Question knowledge check

Top Tips

1. You must not discriminate on the grounds of marriage and civil partnership.
2. People in marriages or civil partnerships should be treated on an equal basis with single people.
3. Treat everybody fairly with respect and consideration.

